“ you were so full of life as a little one. I loved the wonder I'd see in your eyes. Smart as a whip too. you learned to read at a very young age. wish we could have all stayed in the wonderment years before this world took hold. I'll love and miss you always.

“ Me and Dennis go back a very very long time . We got into a lot of shit together lol . I remember when we hit high school he got into that back yard wrestling and boy would he get f up but he would love it the man could take some pain fr fr there is so much I could say but I just can't find the words to say . To my adopted family I love all of you and I'm so so sorry for what you guys have been through these last few years .

“ Still feels unreal you're not here brother. We talk about making plans and hanging out like we had all the time in the world now I wish we had just made the time instead of just talking about it. The world feels different without you here I just hope you knew and still know you will always be my brother real family and I love you bro. I'll always hold on to our uncountable memories and regret the years we missed over unimportant bs. I hope you're finally free and no longer struggling with all that pain and sadness you always carried around. Until we meet again rest days brother ❤️

“ Where do I even start. Our friendship was more like a brother sister relationship. Dennis has been there for me since the day he moved next door to me. We met over a doobie lol he always called it that. He babysat for me while I was in school and also while I was working. New years he babysat. He was never selfish and always fun to be around. I valued his opinion on things no matter what I would ask his take on it. 21 years we have been friends. I watched him go thru good times and bad times. I never stopped being his friend even if I didnt agree with what he was doing. I'm gona miss his words of choice....home skillet was one of them and hey yo with the finger circle. So many good times lots of laughter. He was a great singer and song writer always on the dark side but still very poetic. He will be deeply missed by me and my son donte who has his taste in music. Because of dennis my son listens to rock and roll, he always played music around my son and he had the band back in the day. They used to jam in the garage and sometimes dennis would jam extra loud to make my dad mad lol we would laugh about it. I'm gona miss everything about my friend. His voice his face his mind. And his laugh. Well buddy you were right mortal kombat movie was meh...not much to do with the lore of the game as you said...I love you and will miss you dearly.
